

Light Snowfall Provides Picturesque Scenes

By Don Sutherland

Winter 2018-19 is nearing an end. Snowfall has been unusually low in New York City area on account of a collapsing El Niño event. Nevertheless, there have been a few cases where it has snowed. Those cases have presented picturesque scenes. One such snowfall occurred on February 12 when 1.2” snow and sleet fell in New York City.

Three photos from that snowfall are below:
