

New York Botanical Garden Reopens

By Don Sutherland

As the latest sign that the New York City region is beginning to awaken from its COVID-19 closures, the New York Botanical Garden reopened on July 21. The Enid A. Haupt Conservatory remains closed, but the scaffolding around its glass dome has now been removed. Outdoor flowers are in abundance.

Five photos:

