

The Journey through Spring Continues

By Don Sutherland

The calendar has advanced another week into April. Magnolias and cherry trees have now exploded into bloom. The landscape is now awash in color. Daffodils now cover the ground. Yoshino and Weeping Cherry trees are in full bloom. Magnolias are covered in pink and white blossoms.

Four photos from the New York Botanical Garden follow:

