

Summer Concludes

By Don Sutherland

The final weekend of astronomical summer featured abundant sunshine and warm temperatures in the New York City area. Saturday was particularly warm with readings in the middle and upper 80s across the region. Offshore, Tropical Storm Odette stirred up rough surf before dissipating. Two photos from Robert Moses State Park:

