

ANNY 2023 Annual Conference Concludes

By Don Sutherland

The Assessment Network of New York (ANNY) held its first post-COVID-19 in-person conference in Albany on April 17-18. Aside from two keynote addresses that deepened participants' understanding of assessment and accreditation, there were concurrent sessions including "Future of program assessment through a holistic approach," "Assessing the impact of a learning recovery program addressing pandemic-impacted students' academic needs," "Implementing practical and effective doctoral assessment," "Revisiting: Curriculum map as an assessment tool," "Embracing equitable assessment practices: what are they, why are they important, and how do we implement them?"

The presentations will be posted on ANNY's website. All ANNY members can log in and then access them on the "Resources" tab.
